Who is regulating CGS International Securities Singapore Pte. Ltd.? How are my monies kept?

CGS International Securities Singapore Pte. Ltd. is a member of Singapore Exchange Securities Trading Limited (SGX) and is regulated by the Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS). In accordance with Securities and Futures (Licensing and Conduct of Business) Regulations, funds deposited by customers are held by on trust by CGS International Securities Singapore Pte. Ltd. for its customers in accounts segregated from CGS International Securities Singapore Pte. Ltd.'s monies.

How will corporate actions affect my CFD positions?

As an owner of an Equity CFD, you will have your account adjusted to reflect cash dividends credited or debited on the underlying stock and to participate in stock splits, just as you would if you owned the physical stock. The only difference is that with a CFD you are not entitled to any voting rights.

CFD Benefits

- CFDs add a greater flexibility to traders in their trading strategies.

In addition to trading long positions as traditional stock investors, CFD traders have the option to take on short positions. Hence, gains can potentially be made in both bull or bear markets.

- CFDs provide the ability to hedge an existing physical portfolio.
- No expiry means no time decay.
- Access a wide range of global markets and trade multi-assets through a single online CFD trading account.

- Efficient use of traders' capital.

CFDs provide leverage to traders so that they can trade without the need of depositing the full value of a position. This allows traders to utilise excess capital more efficiently rather than being committed to one transaction.

What is Contracts for Difference (CFD)

A Contract For Difference (CFD) is a tradable instrument that mirrors the movements of the underlying asset. It allows traders to take advantage of the asset's price movement without physical ownership.

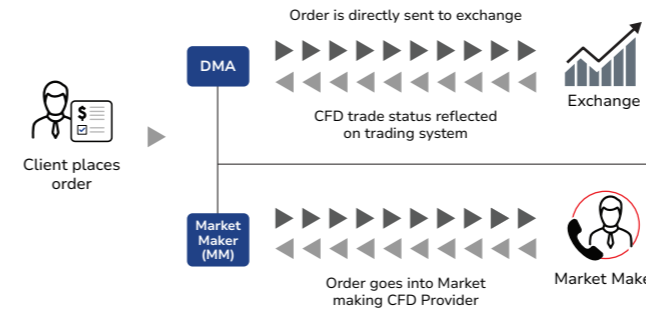

Our Direct Market Access (DMA) CFDs allow traders to participate in the order book of the underlying exchange, as well as entry into pre- and post- market auctions.

PREFERRED DMA CFD PROVIDER

21,000+ Counters

A new world of opportunities!

We provide true DMA (Direct Market Access) facility that allows traders to access the underlying stock exchange liquidity. This results in real-time execution as well as the ability to participate in opening and closing market auctions.
